What The only hospital in Mumbai to function with a full-time specialist system that ensures the availability and access to the best medical talent around-the-clock. The 750-bed hospital has over 103 full-time doctors, 520 nurses and about 200 paramedics, and growing. From high-end salons that even work out hair solutions for chemotherapy patients to stylish restaurants that offer fine dining, art not just on the walls but also on the floor, well-appointed rooms for patients, visitors and a lounge that's dotted with coffee kiosks.

"The satisfaction level of the patient revolves around the entire hospital experience, with a lot of emphasis on customer interaction, telephone etiquette, housekeeping, food and beverages, etc."

meanour turns grave. "The market is booming because the demand completely eclipses capacity. He holds out the promise of numbers: India needs 1,00,000 beds each year for the next 20 years at Rs 50,000 crore per year; double the number of doctors from 0.7 million to 1.5 million; triple the number of nurses from 0.8 million to 2.5 million; four times the number of paramedics from 2.5 to 10 million. "All of us can play this game, provided we keep the momentum going."

The Fortis Group truly shows the might of private players with the hospital buying binge it has entered into—Escorts Heart Institute in 2005 for Rs 600 crore, scores of hospitals in Bangalore, Kolkata, Hyderabad and Mumbai, 10 Wockhardt hospitals for Rs 909 crore last year and now 24 per cent of Singapore's Parkway holdings last month. "That makes us the biggest hospital network in Asia," says Shivinder Singh, the man who heads the Fortis hospital network. The group initially focused on expanding aggressively pan-India through organic and inorganic growth. But its aspiration is clearly global.

"The health boom is like the motorcycle revolution," says Dr Trehan. "Ten years back, they used to make one million and couldn't sell those. Today they make nine million and people are still queuing up for more." But Trehan's latest foray into healthcare hardly resembles a mass-produced motorcycle. The Rs 1,000-

Source: www.amfiindia.com. Methodology—Reliance Mutual Fund has won the 'CNBC TV18 - CRISIL Mutual Fund of the Year' Award in the Category - Mutual Fund House of the Year (Awarded by CRISIL Fund Services, CRISIL Limited). In total 37 fund houses were considered as the award universe. Fund Houses winning at least one award for their schemes in the category level awards for 2009 were eligible to be in contention for the award. The award is based on consistency of fund house's performance across various scheme categories in the four quarterly CRISIL Composite Performance Rankings (CPR) released during the calendar year 2009. The individual CRISIL CPR ranks for their schemes were aggregated on a weighted average basis to arrive at the final ranks for fund houses. The mutual fund house with the highest final score is the "Mutual Fund House of the Year". The award has been granted for the year 2009 and will be in vogue till the announcement of the award for the next year in the same category.
