Mayawati is enraged at Governor B.L. Joshi. Joshi had rejected a bill seeking the creation of a special police force for safeguarding her monuments, parks and massive statues of Dalit icons. The bill was sent back by Joshi who wanted it returned to him in the form of an ordinance. Joshi's issue was the inclusion of 13-A Mall Avenue in the list of monuments to be protected. The building is Mayawati's former home and has been turned into a Kanshi Ram Memorial at a cost of Rs 70 crore. Joshi then withheld the ordi-

governor. The chief minister has now asked for a blueprint of a special police force for which neither a bill nor ordinance is needed. "The state Government has enough powers to start recruitment for such a special force," says Cabinet Secretary Shashank Shekhar Singh. Uttar Pradesh's war of egos has begun.

Buddhadeb Bhattacharya may have taken umbrage to Home Minister P. Chidambaram's "the buck stops here" remark, but will someone tell him that it isn't slang? US President Harry Truman had "The Buck Stops Here" written on his Oval Office desk. He most certainly knew his English, unlike Bhattacharya.
