NISHIKANT GAMRE

Game Changer

Because the event he created, the $1-billion Indian Premier League, remains a ratings-grabber on entertainment television, a year-round source of world cricket's attention and a recession-free event.

Because whether it is defying the Government and moving the IPL to South Africa due to security issues, or ticking off player associations in Australia and England who threaten to withdraw from Season 3, there is not a fight he does not win.

Because he has changed the rules of the game, be it starting a 'strategic time-out' to generate more ad spots in a T20 match or first framing, then tearing up the rules needed to make a bid for two new franchises next season.

Because the biggest names in cricket and Bollywood now want to be on his speed dial.

Loves to Be in the news, so the tweets come at a furious pace.

Can't live without A Modicam, the name television producers have for the camera specially meant to follow him during every IPL match.

Did you know That he throws papers around when angry, which is often.

Solid Growth

Because this IIT alumnus steers a diversified conglomerate which has morphed from a modest venture started with Rs 10,000 into a brand synonymous with infrastructure development in India, with a market cap of over Rs 45,000 crore and a footprint that straddles hydropower, cement, engineering and construction.

Because despite the economic slowdown, the company has seen 60 per cent growth this year.

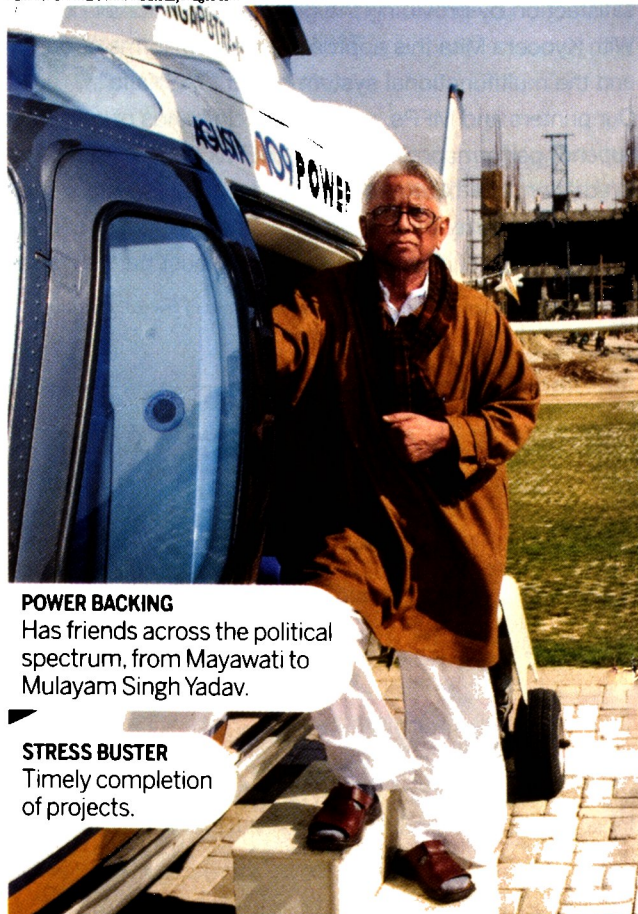

Because with its operational projects, the 300-MW Baspa-II in Himachal Pradesh and the 400-MW Vishnuprayag in Uttarakhand, the group is now the country's largest private sector hydropower producer.

Because when completed, the 1,047-km-long Ganga Expressway, from Greater Noida to Ballia, will be the largest infrastructure project in India.

Success mantra Transforming challenges into opportunities and enhancing shareholder's wealth by foraying into new territories.

Big move Signing Sachin Tendulkar to endorse JP for Rs 12 crore and gifting him a penthouse in the Greater Noida Greens.
