

NUMBERS GAME

349 on the Forbes list of the world's richest.

POWER PROJECT

Endhiran with Rajinikanth at a budget of Rs 165 crore.

17

RAGHAV BAHL

50, Media Baron (15)

Never Say Die

Because despite having his back against the wall in a grim year, he recapitalised his cash-strapped group companies by investing Rs 1,000 crore.

Because Colors stayed ahead of Star Plus and Zee in a water-tight entertainment market, in.com was ranked at No. 2 among Indian horizontal portals and HomeShop18 hit the magic mark of Rs 1 crore in gross sales every day.

Because their older operations weathered the storm, with CNBC-TV18 and CNBC-Awaaz continuing their leadership in the business news broadcast market.

Because they added America's Forbes and South Korea's GS HomeShopping to their existing global partnerships with CNBC, CNN and Viacom.

New acquisition His first book, a critical commentary on the political economy of India and China, to be published in August 2010.

Biggest disappointment Though two films, Little Zizou and 1971, won National Awards, his films tanked and his movie studio was in dire need of an oxygen infusion.

Loves to be told "Dad don't be silly," by his children.

KALANIDHI MARAN

44, Media Baron (24)

Southern Gatekeeper

Because thanks to the able political skills of his minister brother, Dayanidhi, the two have managed to mend ties with his grand uncle, DMK patriarch M. Karunanidhi, and his sons M.K. Stalin and M.K. Azhagiri.

Because the undisputed leader of the southern TV market has completed the vertical integration in media with his Sun Network's entry into buying and distribution of Tamil films.

Because with a net worth of $2.3 billion, he finds himself at No. 20 in the Forbes list of 100 rich Indians.

Because with a Tamil daily Dinakaran, which has a circulation of nearly one million, 20 TV channels reaching more than 95 million households in India, and a DTH platform with 4.5 million subscribers, he runs one of the largest media conglomerates.

Personal conviction A student of Loyola College, he strongly believes in his friends. Sun TV started in 1993 with a 25-member team, many of whom are Maran's close college friends.

Did you know The MBA graduate from the University of Scranton is an amateur radio operator.

Numbers game Maran, along with wife and joint Managing Director Kaveri Kalanidhi, is ranked as the highest-paid executive in India, earning Rs 37 crore.

POWER READ

Fareed Zakaria's The Post American World.

WISHED HE HAD

Spent more time in trying to understand Twitter.