

The White Flesh Trade

FEBRUARY 1, 2010

Fleeing a meltdown in Dubai, over 6,000 women prostitutes from Commonwealth of Independent States (CIS) countries make India their new hunting ground.

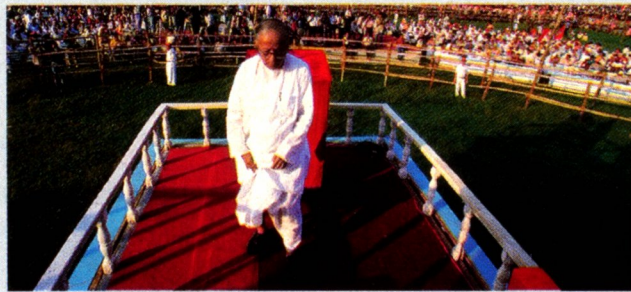

“ Besides being a social evil, flesh trade also poses a danger to the security of the country since it can facilitate infiltration and spying. This issue demands immediate attention. ”

A. JACOB SAHAYAM, Thiruvananthapuram

Unfair Trade

Light skin has its unique advantage which is capitalised to the hilt by CIS women engaged in flesh trade (“The White Flesh Trade”, February 1). Orientals have their sex fantasies with white women; and the price tag doesn’t stand in the way. There is an overall respectability and courtesy extended to such fair-skinned foreign women by our law enforcing authorities, which reflects in few arrests related to immoral trafficking in the country.
K.V. RAGHURAM, Wayanad

The migration of prostitutes of CIS countries bodes ill for the youth of India who are already lapping up everything western. This will result not only in moral degradation of the young people

Last Man Standing

Veteran Marxist leader Jyoti Basu has left behind a thought for his comrades to ponder over (“The Last Gentleman Comrade”, February 1). It is to move with the mainstream and change with the times. Today, it is not only the communists, but also other national parties, who think of the poor. Why not open up then, instead of fighting for a limited agenda? Let the CPI(M) be acceptable to the people as a national party which is fit to lead the nation.
MADHU R.D. SINGH, Haryana

Basu abhorred adulation but was adulated sufficiently to emerge as the unquestioned leader of the CPI(M) in West Bengal. Tragically, the primacy he gave to the CPI(M) led to the creation of a system where the real authority was vested in the party and not the government.

but also place them at the risk of contracting life-threatening diseases. It is high time the authorities took necessary action.
BHUSHAN CHANDER JINDAL, Jalandhar

Prostitution continues to flourish in our country. The news of Dubai meltdown will be welcomed by the pimps across Indian metros. They are well aware that these women would not like to go back to their respective countries and would rather settle for less. As a result, they will grab these women and exploit them.

Dire Straits

One would agree with the home minister that it is luck, and not our defence preparedness, that has saved us from another
