

Learn it right and the rest will follow. Yes, education isn't just the first step in career-building; it is the definitive variable. And in this world of growing choices, sometimes there's too much going around to make sense of. What's generally missing in the storm of information on career options is clarity on cost and future prospects. It is these vital queries that Aviva's Child Future Planner seeks to answer. We have shortlisted 11 popular courses. From safe bets like law and engineering to new age favourites like graphics and animation, the planner updates you on the cost of education, the best institutions and the vital pre-requisites. Going by the thumb rule of 8 per cent inflation, the planner also offers detailed information on the cost of the courses 15 years from now. At Aviva, we not only value the importance of good education, but also understand the role it plays in shaping your child's future. Aviva's Child Future Planner only helps you map the road to success for your child!
