HEAT AND DUST: In an imitation of the Iraq incident involving former US president George Bush, a Sikh journalist threw his shoe at Home Minister P. Chidambaram at a press conference to protest against the CBI giving a clean chit to Jagdish Tytler, one of the key accused in the 1984 anti-Sikh riots in Delhi (top); but as the minister himself admitted, the bigger challenge was the increasingly militant actions of the Maoists who were better equipped for taking on the security forces deployed against them
