

Smriti stands tall

10950 } The number of runs aggregated by Smriti Mandhana during her international career spanning all three formats. During her 18th international three-figure score (the most by any woman cricketer) against Hong Kong in Dubai on 3 September 2026 in the Group match of the Asia Cup, she became the leading run-getter in women's international cricket, surpassing former team-mate Mithali Raj's tally of 10868 runs. Mandhana now has 10950 runs, just 50 short of 11000 across formats. Incidentally, her now-record 18 centuries also surpass the 17 by Australian Meg Lanning and South African Laura Wolvaardt.

Leading run-getters in women's internationals spanning all three formats

Runs	Batter	(For)	M	Inns	Avg.	HS	100	50	Career Span	WTests	WODIs	WT20Is
10950	Smriti Mandhana	(Ind)	305	306	38.69	149	18	76	2013-	788	5411	4751
10868	Mithali Raj	(Ind)	333	314	46.64	214	8	85	1999-2022	699	7805	2364
10273	Charlotte Edwards	(Eng)	309	316	37.49	173*	13	67	1996-2016	1676	5992	2605
9132	Harmanpreet Kaur	(Ind)	379	342	33.09	171*	8	44	2009-	304	4541	4287
8864	Laura Wolvaardt	(SA)	238	235	44.77	184*	17	57	2016-	255	5695	2914

Note: During Mandhana's 59 against Sri Lanka in the Asia Cup final on 13 June 2026, she recorded her 94th score of fifty-plus, going ahead of 93 held by Mithali Raj. Charlotte Edwards (80) and Laura Wolvaardt (74) are next in the list.

2538 } The number of days Shafali Verma needed to reach 3,000 T20I runs. She thus became the first female cricketer to reach this milestone in less than seven years since making her debut. On 5 September 2026, in Dubai against Pakistan, she became the 16th woman cricketer in T20I history to reach 3000 runs, thus joining her fellow Indians, Harmanpreet Kaur and Smriti Mandhana, in the list. She is now the quickest to reach this milestone, in the fewest days since her debut, surpassing the previous record held by UAE's Esha Oza, who needed 2721 days. At 22, she also became the youngest to reach this landmark. Ireland's Gaby Lewis was 24 when she achieved her milestone earlier this January. The second table below has these details.

Quickest to reach 3000 T20I runs in women's cricket (in terms of fewer days since debut)

Days	Year-month-day	Batter	(For)	T20I debut	Achieved on	M	Inns	Opp	Venue	Result
2538	6y-11m-12d	Shafali Verma	(India)	24 Sep 2019	5 Sep 2026	114	113	Pakistan	Dubai	Won
2721	7y-5m-11d	Esha Oza	(UAE)	7 Jul 2018	18 Dec 2025	109	106	Bahrain	Al Amerat	Won
3187	8y-8m-21d	Beth Mooney	(Australia)	26 Jan 2016	17 Oct 2024	106	100	South Africa	Dubai	Lost
3927	10y-9m	Smriti Mandhana	(India)	5 Apr 2013	5 Jan 2024	126	122	Australia	New Mumbai	Won
4039	11y-21d	Meg Lanning	(Australia)	30 Dec 2010	20 Jan 2022	114	107	England	Adelaide	Won

Note: Beth Mooney needed fewer number of innings (100) to reach this milestone.

Youngest to reach 3000 T20I runs in women's cricket

Age	Batter	(For)	Achieved on	M	Inns	Opp	Venue	Result
22y-220d	Shafali Verma	(India)	5 Sep 2026	114	113	Pakistan	Dubai	Won
24y-307d	Gaby Lewis	(Ireland)	28 Jan 2026	112	110	Scotland	Kirtipur	Lost
27y-139d	Esha Oza	(UAE)	18 Dec 2025	109	106	Bahrain	Al Amerat	Won
27y-171d	Smriti Mandhana	(India)	5 Jan 2024	126	122	Australia	New Mumbai	Won
27y-347d	Hayley Matthews	(West Indies)	1 Mar 2026	114	114	Sri Lanka	St. George's	Lost

15 } Kranti Gaud's T20I score while batting at number 11 in the game against Thailand in Dubai on 30 August 2026. This is now the joint second-highest score in this format in women's cricket at this batting position. Gaud's effort is also the best by a woman batter from a top cricketing nation. Ireland's Elena Tice (14) and New Zealand's Rosemary Mair (13* vs England in Christchurch in 2021) have the next-best scores.

Highest career scores by #11 batters in women's T20I cricket

Runs	Batter	(For)	Opp	Venue	Date	Inns	Result	Last wkt added
21*	Florence Agaimalo	(Samoa)	Vanuatu	Port Vila	3 Oct 2022	2	Lost	40
15*	Duygu Tekyildirim	(Turkey)	Greece	Sofia	9 Jul 2025	1	Won	52*
15*	Kranti Gaud	(India)	Thailand	Dubai	30 Aug 2026	1	Won	22*
14	Elena Tice	(Ireland)	Sri Lanka	Dublin	27 Jul 2013	1	Lost	23*