

Days of yore:

Mudassar Nazar during his playing days, when Pakistan's cricket system was a very different proposition.

GETTYIMAGES

Pakistan in Tests since September 2021

Played: 35

Won: 10

Lost: 21

Drawn: 4

Win percentage: 28.5%

Finished 7th in World Test

Championship 2021-23 and 9th in WTC 2023-25

Things have to start all over again, with a new captain, a new vice-captain and a new selection committee.

So how can Pakistan perform consistently? It is impossible.

I think it is high time we took a breather and did something. Being the head of the PCB, Mr Mohsin Naqvi should invite former players and listen to those guys who want to make a difference.

I am not talking about those running their own channels and criticising Pakistan left, right and centre. Bashing Pakistan cricket with negative comments has an effect on the players, too.

We have former heroes and former players having a go at them instead of trying to work with them and find a solution.

Pakistan is a poor country. There are not as many cricket jobs available as in the rest of the cricketing world, so everybody is in a rush to get into the Pakistan Cricket Board.

Some are genuine. Those are the people the PCB should listen to. Sit down under one roof and, once and for all, come up with a system.

Then back that system. Don't change it within six months, eight months or a year down the line.

It is not rocket science. The other countries are doing it. We have to stop starting all over again.

(The writer is a former Pakistan cricketer and a coach of repute)