India narrowly avoided a historic upset, edging Japan by two runs in a rain-curtailed five-over T20I at the Sano International Cricket Ground. The win was India's 200th in T20Is, including Super Over victories, making it the first team to reach the landmark. Japan's spinners exploited the damp conditions to reduce India to 14 for three. Abhishek Sharma fell for a golden duck, while Sanju Samson and Ishan Kishan made nine and three respectively. Shreyas Iyer's 16 helped India reach 32 for four, which proved to be just enough in the end.
