2032

Fitzroy River in Queensland, Australia, has been approved to host rowing events during the Brisbane 2032 Olympics. The venue, which is also known as a crocodile habitat, has previously faced criticism over concerns about strong currents, flooding and whether it could provide fair racing conditions. However, officials have confirmed that the river has enough space for an international-standard course, including eight lanes and a 2,000-metre racing distance.

WINNING WAYS

Zach Johnson won the Pure Insurance Championship at Pebble Beach for his second straight PGA Tour Champions victory and the sixth in his first season on the 50-and-over circuit.
