WHO THEY ARE

He is an actor while she is a fashion designer.

HUSSAIN There's nothing wrong in fantasising. It's the action that makes the difference.

TINA Fantasy is a state of mind; it's imagining a person you can never get. It's not something to be shared with your partner.

34 PER CENT OF RESPONDENTS IN JAIPUR WERE DISGUSTED AND SHOCKED WHEN THEIR PARTNERS SHARED THEIR SEXUAL FANTASIES WITH THEM.

us briefly delve into the INDIA TODAY-AC Nielsen-ORG MARG sex survey 2009 and its probable impact on the respondents. The interviewer asks, "Who do you fantasise having sex with?" Even though the majority said they thought of having sex with their spouse and partner, the interviewer, undaunted, continues, "Do you fantasise about sex with a stranger?" and later insists, "Please look at the below mentioned list and tell us with whom you fantasise having sex with." Increasingly, as respondents get an idea of what the interviewer wants to hear, they seem to offer sexier, more decorative responses. Soon more and more say "yes" to thinking about sex with a stranger on the street, and imagine romps with celebrities and film stars. They are also more likely to represent themselves in line with their gender and social norms. More men thought harder about sex compared with women; more men were non-virgins compared to women; more men reported adultery than women. As interviewees, we are eager to portray ourselves in a favourable light as it reflects well on us. No one wants to be perceived as a sexual deviant and unless there is a means to check the veracity of our claims with our partners, many would claim they've made out with Bipasha Basu.
