

Shooting Star

She was born in Shillong but is getting her act together in the UK. Indian-origin actor Karen David has bagged a role in the hit BBC show Waterloo Road, set around a school and its problems. David, who's also a singer and songwriter, will play the role of a young Spanish teacher. She was in the US hit Couple's Retreat and will also release a music album soon. Quite the rock star.

AB NAUSEAM

Does Shahid Kapoor really need to do this? For Chance Pe Dance, Shahid's been advertising his eight-pack abs with such gusto that it makes one wonder if that's the highlight of the film. He plays a struggling actor but with carefully sculpted abs, it seems like he's actually essaying a gym instructor. Shah Rukh Khan and Aamir Khan have done it before. So, do abs pack the power of success?

Black Listed

Varsha Vinod isn't just another pint-sized five-year-old. The girl from Alappuzha, Kerala, is India's youngest black belt in karate. The daughter of a karate instructor, Vinod Vishwanathan, she started training when she was just two. By the time she was four, she had a brown belt and was training for two-and-a-half hours everyday. She recently even sparred with UK's karate champion Juan Moreno, who called her the "ultimate karate kid". Wonder if she'll challenge Akshay Kumar next.

MODEL ACT

Mrinalini Sharma is out to thrill. The model-turned-actor will soon be seen in Hide N Seek, a film about six friends who reunite after 12 years and how their past catches up with them. Directed by debutante Shawn Arranha, it also stars Purab Kohli. "I play the quiet Jyotika, who gets caught in a rollercoaster fight for survival," says Sharma. Hold on to your seats.
