

26/11
War on Terror
 India's Moon Shot

Indian Idol
 SEZs
 Pinging
 Playstation
 Wii
 NANO
 Downloads
 Twitter
 Recen
 Dynastic
 PAGE 3
 Blogging
 Shopping
 Global warming
 Skinny jeans
 Item girl
 Wardrob
 Going Green
 Neocon
 LMS
War on Terror
 India's Moon Shot
 Naxals

Low cost
 Facebook
 Unfriend
 Negative in Size Zero
 Six-pack
 BlackBerry
 Cheerle

iPods
 Botox

2000

2001

2002

2003

2004

2005

2006

2007

2008

2009

Essay

TEN YEARS THAT SHOOK OUR WORLD

Osama bin Laden. A Wall Street crash with Main Street casualties. The Internet. The iPhone. India Shining. T-20 triumphalism. A decade begun in the shadow of Y2K that saw India coming of age on the global stage. But if the post-liberalisation decade taught the nation that growth is possible with social justice, in the next 10 years, it has to find the tenacity to stay on course to meet the revolution of perceived possibilities.

BY THE YEAR

2000 Y2K, ONE BILLION
 Y2K passes by. Bill Clinton is the first US president to visit India after Jimmy Carter in 1978. India's population hits one billion. Priyanka Chopra is Miss World. 100 per cent FDI is allowed in e-commerce. The world's highest telephone exchange is commissioned at 14,500 ft in Spiti Valley in Himachal Pradesh. Jharkhand and Chhattisgarh are born. Rajesh Pilot dies in a car crash.

