

Twit for Twat

Vendettas, revelations and rip-offs. It's all laid bare in the newest online battleground.

Gul Panag vs Army Chief

This was a twitter tirade that made the country's headlines. Army brat Panag gave us a glimpse into her righteous activist side when she accused retired Army Chief General Deepak Kapoor of being "spineless" and "trying to save his buddy's neck" in a series of bitter tweets. She was enraged at the cover up in the Sukna Land case involving Military Secretary Lt Gen Avadesh Prakash.

Gul Panag

"It's a first. MOD (Defence Ministry) had to step in as COAS (Chief of Army Staff) continued his stand of trying to protect the said generals. Now why was he protecting them?"

"COAS saving his buddy's neck as he is in all likelihood equally dirty."

Pritish Nandy vs Kareena Kapoor

Kareena Kapoor faced much criticism for her vampiric size zero but it seemed she didn't bother about what the world had to say. Pritish Nandy's tweet, however, forced her to break out of her shell of pretentious nonchalance.

Pritish Nandy

"Why don't you see what she looked like in Chameli and compare it with KI (Kambakkint Ishq). Chameli was a real woman, a beautiful woman. She was stunning. Kareena looked like a dream in those days. Today she is a joke."

Ouch!

Kareena Kapoor

Kapoor doesn't twitter but she did give an interview where she said twitter is for people like Nandy who "have too much time to blog and talk about others."

Lalit Modi vs Shashi Tharoor

Tharoor is pretty much India's very own Perez Hilton when it comes to twitter spats. In the most sensational one so far, both Tharoor and Modi were slinging mud in public over the Kochi IPL team. The result? Both sides ended up losing while the government is trying to figure out the multi-million dollar circus called the IPL.

Lalit Modi

"I was told by him not to get into who owns Rendezvous. Specially Sunanda Pushkar. Why? The same has been minuted in my records"

"Who are the shareholders of Rendezvous. And why have they been given this 100's of million dollar bonanza?"

Shashi Tharoor

"I am NOT part of the bid but was pleased to give Rendezvous Sports World my encouragement & blessings. My interest is in transforming Kerala."

"Thanks for all the support & good wishes. U folks are the new India. We will 'be the change' we wish to see in our country. But not w/out pain!"
