

AFP

Short CIRCUIT

Was it the IPL? Was it too much optimism? Or was it genuine pace that did Dhoni's boys in? The Men in Blue need to climb out of the hole they're in.

| By Sharda Ugra |

Maybe it's the water in the Caribbean. Or the air. Or the 'distraction' of women dressed in Reliance mobile bikini tops dancing near the boundary. Or the media who smell scandal in stinking socks. Or the IPL and its perfumed pay-cheques and disorienting decibels. Or, or, or.

Or what may help the Indian cricket team inch closer to the truth is abandoning the conspiracy theories and accepting that when it comes to the big events, they are now the ICC's official Party Poopers. Just that it is their own party that they poop on. In the last three years, India have played in five multi-national tournaments and bombed in four. They have turned up on the field with their Z-game out of sync, out of the big league.

The clinical Australians have won