

CLEAN CATCH

First came the films, then there was the arm-in-arm stint on the Oprah Winfrey show. And now Mrs and Mr Bachchan Junior will soon make an appearance in their very first commercial together. Abhishek and Aishwarya, who were apparently paid an oh-my-God inducing Rs 25 crore for a joint appearance, recently shot for a Lux ad in Mumbai's Film City. Styled by Aki Narula, it has Goldilocks Aishwarya blindfolding Abhishek and playing some good old catch me if you can. We now want to know how that one ends.

Reality Saga

There's dance and lots of drama. Three generations of a British-Asian family in the UK will soon feature in a reality show called The Family on Channel 4. All nine members of the Grewal family from Windsor will give reality obsessed Britain a peek into their lives. The Indian-origin Punjabis have been quite the entertainers. The head of the house starred in Punjabi films and the son-in-law also acted in Gangster. British tv just got spicier.

KIN CONTEST

He may have avoided a face-off with sister Priya Dutt during the Lok Sabha elections, but just couldn't prevent it this time. Sanjay Dutt, being the obedient partyman, has thrown his weight behind sp candidate Rizwan Merchant, who's contesting the Maharashtra Assembly polls from Bandra (East).

Little sister and MP Priya, who stays in the same building as the actor, has been campaigning rather actively for Congress's Ziauddin 'Baba' Siddique. Siddique is vying for the same constituency as Sanjay's preferred one. Wonder if the siblings discussed strategies?

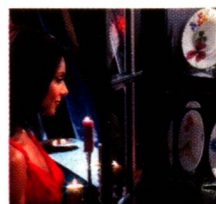

GLASS ACT

First it was fizzy drinks, then it was cars, soon it became hair oil and now it does not matter. Our celebrities will really sell anything. For the first time, an actor has said yes to being the face of a crockery brand. Bipasha Basu, who's been championing Reebok, will now feature in an ad for a glassware brand. The ad shows Basu matching her red dress to her crockery. Kajol sells a probiotic drink, Katrina Kaif swears by a hair removal cream and Soha Ali Khan goes ga-ga over a car freshener. What's next? Some toilet paper, perhaps?

KAJOL (ABOVE) AND BIPASHA

Courtesy: BATES 141

