

"The Traffic Department primarily ensures safe passage for VIPs and does not operate for the common man."

KIRAN BEDI, Former Traffic Commissioner

THE BMW TRIAL

At 4.50 a.m., on January 10, 1999, an inebriated Sanjeev Nanda, grandson of former Indian Navy chief Admiral S.M. Nanda, rammed his new BMW at high speed into a police checkpoint on Lodhi Road, killing six people—half of them policemen—while returning from a late night party with friends Manik Kapoor and Siddharth Gupta. The only survivor of the accident, Manoj, turned hostile and the other eyewitness, Sunil Kulkarni, was declared unreliable by the prosecution but made to depose. Criminal lawyers R.K. Anand and I.U. Khan were caught on camera offering money to Kulkarni. Having served his sentence, Nanda is a free man now.

URBAN EPITAPH

These top 10 of India's cities account for the most deaths due to road accidents

Figures in percentage of total road deaths in the top 35 cities. Source: National Crime Records Bureau

Graphics by PRASHANT CHAUDHARY / www.indiatodayimages.com

TEN LONG YEARS OF TRIAL AND CONTROVERSY SAW CRIMINAL LAWYERS CAUGHT ON CAMERA OFFERING MONEY TO A WITNESS.