The label recognises the need for stylised clothes and thus delivers garments that excel not only in style but also in immaculate finishes. So how do they get the edge? At La Mode they source huge volume of fabric directly from country's leading mills, get the stitching and fabrication at their own most modern and automatic plants, manage distribution on their own, sell from self owned outlets through their own sales team.

It is this truly unique business model of La Mode, which has resulted in growth of its popularity. Simply put, what you get at La Mode is absolute quality and style at less than half the market price. La Mode's cut the mediator out strategy makes it possible.
