ON TOP IN CHENNAI, LOYOLA COLLEGE HAS SLIPPED TO SECOND PLACE IN THE NATIONAL RANKINGS

in Delhi, retained its third position this year. Its English and economics departments are renowned all over the country. "We are the best because we attract the best," says N. Raghunathan, head of the economics department. Former students have excelled in fields ranging from media and politics to academics and entertainment. Students are encouraged to read extensively and carve niche for themselves. This year the college will revert to the admission format followed in 2008. The merit differential between the Christian and the general pool cannot exceed 15 per cent and in case the reserved category seats are not filled, they will be opened for the general pool.

Apart from its impressive academics, the college also boasts of two dozen clubs and societies that are an important constituent of the campus life and offer a variety of avenues for self-expression. They are known for inviting prominent leaders from all walks of life to hold debates and interact with the students. Its Shakespeare Society is famous all over India for the quality of its English plays, and has even been a launching pad for several successful careers in drama. It is this emphasis on all-round development which makes studying at St. Stephen's an enriching and life changing experience.
