

National Law Institute University, Bhopal

Centre of Excellence in Law

Prof. S. S. Singh
Director, NLIU, Bhopal

Our vision is to make NLIU one of the best centres of legal education, training and research in the world. Our mission is to develop and nurture the intellects for the betterment of the nation and humanity through law and justice. The University possesses state-of-the-art infrastructure, excellent faculty and very helpful support staff that facilitates the teaching-learning and research. The University library is one of the best libraries in the country and subscribes to almost all top class online libraries, thus, enabling the user the access to retrieve information in real time from diverse sources located across the globe. The 24x7 internet connection enabled by 2 kbps lease line with wi-fi facility tells the story of our commitment to enabling education through ICT.

We practice a combined method of curricular and dilactic method of teaching to that of Socratic methods and critical pedagogy. During the five years of stay at the University students complete 55 courses including specialized optional courses in senior classes and a few non-credit courses. Optional courses like Law and Globalization; Semiconductor, Integrated Circuit and Design Act; Cyber Law; Air and Space Law; Natural Resources Law; Women and Law; Disability Law; Customary and Tribal Law; Traditional Knowledge, Biodiversity and IPR; Taxation Law are some of the preferred courses among students.

The preferred theme at NLIU is 'change with continuity' and is aptly reflected in the theory, method and practice of education. The norms of diversity, pluralism and progress of poor are inextricably intertwined with the ethos of NLIU. Students of NLIU come from very diverse socio-economic and regional backgrounds and along with them come their distinct pattern of difference in taste, choice and preferences. Amidst these difference and distinction personal integrity and intelligence remain the common factor. Ambition to excel put them into the orbit of 'learning the law-the hard way'. A distinguished faculty comprising of the best in scholarship and a perfect blend of experienced and eager brains takes pride in metamorphosing these amorphous group of agile yet uninitiated minds into luminous crystals. The experience at NLIU can be best expressed when we re-phrase the immortal lines of Netaji Subhas Bose, 'You shall give me dedication, discipline and determination and I shall guarantee you caliber, capability and creativity the essence to have the best of a career'.

The forty-five acre lush green campus is home to the Vice-

This residential University promotes the value of community living and believes in sharing, caring and understanding others.

Chancellor, senior administrative staff, members of faculty and a host of other support staff. This walled complex with its imposing gate and massive boundary wall at times gives the false impression of a fortress but it is our emblem of safety, security and self-dependence. The faculty at NLIU is more than willing to guide, supervise and support the students that go beyond the boundary of class hours and classrooms. The students are free to discuss issues pertaining to financial difficulties, emotional estrangement, ethics of profession and needless to add mechanism to achieve personal and professional goals.

The students of NLIU have brought laurels to the University by winning international and national moot court competitions. Have represented the University at prestigious United Nations Mock Parliament, Paris International Commercial Arbitration Competition, and having received the roll of honour at Stetson and Jessup to name a few. They have published in reputed magazines and journals that include Economic and Political Weekly and Harvard Law Journal. Our students have also received their Masters degree from Harvard, Cambridge, LSE, Ruen, etc. The University has memorandum of understanding with George Washington University, Washington DC, USA; University of Leiden, the Netherlands, McGill University, Canada etc. We are in the process of including few more universities of reputation from abroad into our robust scholars exchange programme. We have a tie up with Microsoft that provides scholarships to four students for writing research papers in IPR. NLIU have received grants for Ministry of Human Resources Development to establish Rajiv Gandhi National Cyber Law Centre, institute chair professorship IPR and a grant from Ministry of Consumer Affairs to set up a centre on consumer education.

The University endeavours to ensure provide freedom to access information, cultivate knowledge and commitment to justice.
