City-level ranking of a college is determined by its scores in the Top 50 national ranking. For those city colleges that do not figure in the toppers' list, only perceptual scores were considered for the above ranking. Faculties were not considered.

IN SECOND PLACE, LOYOLA REMAINS COMMITTED TO NEW INITIATIVES THAT SERVE SOCIETY will be the cheapest in the market. "Its latest is the invention of a new biopesticide called Ponneim to help farmers save their plants from pesticides," says Dr S. Ignacimuthu, director, entomology department. Loyola's placement cell ensures that more than 30 per cent of the students are assured of jobs while in college itself. When it comes to the future, the college's science departments have already set their targets for their next academic year's research activities. "We are looking for new initiatives and we definitely plan to take up more research projects in the coming years," says Jeyaraj.

Ranked third in this year's survey, Presidency College, Kolkata, is known for its department of science at the undergraduate level. Established in 1817, the college is one of the oldest educational institutes in India and has a score of well-known faces who have graduated from it—Satyajit Ray, Amartya Sen and Somnath Chatterjee. "Our teacher-student ratio is 1:6 where the emphasis is on better quality of teaching and skillful development at the laboratory," says Principal Sanjib Ghosh. The college is currently affiliated to the University of Calcutta but is set to become a unitary university under the state Government in the next few months.
